How do FYTD revenue cash flow estimates compare to actual?

Revenues are running ahead of forecast because of property taxes. The higher property taxes are primarily due to current collection rates for business property being a little higher than anticipated and business delinquency payments also being a little higher than anticipated.

How do FYTD expenditure cash flow estimates compare to actual?

Expenditures are running a little below estimates. The $69,000 underspending in "Other non-op Expenditures" is because we have not yet made the transfer from the Operating Fund to the PI Fund to cover additional infrastructure costs related to the tennis court project.
Monthly cash flow estimates.

Expected cash flow remains above cash balance guidelines in each month except January 2018 through FY 2018.

1.2.3. Analysis of Cash Flow

Cash Flow 1 - Year-Over-Year Actual Comparison

- Actual FYTD 2017 Real Estate Taxes
  - July - August: $8,115,003
  - $100,809

Cash Flow 2 - Year-Over-Year Remaining Revenue Comparison

- Estimated FYTD 2017 Real Estate Taxes
  - September - June: $9,362,192
  - $157,430

Cash Flow 3 - Year-Over-Year Cash Flow Estimates

- The Current Forecast amount of $17,477,197

Real estate taxes after the second half 2016 settlement are doing a little better than expected. The main reason is the increase in the current collection rate from 2015 to 2016. Some of the increase is artificial because of the data correction that was made by the County Auditor, but that does not account for all of the Class II (business property) change from 82.4 percent to 95 percent (shown in the top graphic).

The bottom chart shows that real property taxes for July/August increased by about one percent over last year. For the fiscal year, tax revenue is expected to grow by about $258,000 over FY 2016. The May five-year forecast anticipated growth of about $48,000.
